Abstract. Records of spiders (Arachnida, Araneae) from Vietnam were searched in the arachnological literatures hitherto published. About 90 articles concerning Vietnamese spiders from 1837 through 2011 were selected, and reliable records were carefully picked out. An inventory list of 456 species belonging to 41 families is presented with notes on their distribution or type locality. Although re-examination of the original specimens of old collections is progressing, only type specimens of Poltys turriger Simon, 1897 and Poltys unguifer Simon, 1909 (Araneidae) both examined in the National Museum of Natural History in Paris are illustrated herewith.

Key words: Taxonomy, Arachnida, Araneae, inventory, Vietnam.

Introduction

Lying in the northern part of Southeast Asia and along eastern coast of the Indochina Peninsula, Vietnam has an important role in the study of Asian spider fauna. Because very little was known about this branch of science only thirty years ago, the Vietnamese arachnology has great potential to develop various fields of researches in the independent course and under international cooperations. Although such situation is fluid at the present moment and the number of publication on Vietnamese spiders is increasing, we aimed to draw an overall picture of the present knowledge of the spider records, having revised the previous list published by Pham, Xu & Li (2007).

In the first volume of Bibliographia Araneorum (Bonnet, 1945) twenty-four articles on spiders of “Indo-Chine française” were listed, which included Annam, Cambodia, Cochinchina, Laos, Tonkin and Saigon of those days. Of these, following articles were involved with Vietnamese spiders: Walckenaer (1837, 1841), Günther (1862), Dufour (1863), O. Pickard-Cambridge (1879), Simon (1880, 1886, 1893, 1895 a, b, 1896, 1897 a, b, 1898, 1901, 1903 a, b, 1904, 1906, 1909), Karsch (1884), Strand (1917), Hogg (1922) and Giltay (1934).

However, after these old records almost nothing was published on the spiders of Vietnam for fifty years, except for some revisions of the type specimens in the European museums (Levi, 1964, Ono, 1980, Lehtinen, 1980 and others). Modern taxonomical studies based on the materials newly collected at field researches since 1950s have started recently with a monograph of salticids of Vietnam by Žabka (1985).

Zoological expeditions were made in various places of Vietnam by the National Museum of Nature and Science, Tokyo, formerly National Science Museum, Tokyo (NSMT), under guidance of the Institute of Ecology and Biological Resources (IEBR), Vietnam Academy of Science and Technology, Hanoi, in the period of years from 1994 to 2003. We joined in these expeditions and several papers were published from the results of studies based on the spider material obtained (Ono, 1997, 1999, 2000, 2002, 2003, 2004 a, b, 2009a). Ono also made some researches under the project “Biodiversity Inventory in the Western Pacific Region” conducted by the National Museum of Japan in 2008 and 2009 (Ono, 2009 a).

On the other hand, Pham is continuously studying spiders in Vietnam with Chinese arachnologists instructed by Dr. Li Shuqiang of the Institute of Zoology, Chinese Academy of Sciences (Lin, Pham & Li, 2009; Liu, Li & Pham, 2010 a, b). Thus, the rapid development of arachnology is greatly expected in this country.

Materials and Methods

Records of spiders from Vietnam were surveyed in the papers and books published since 1757. Following catalogues and monographs were used for searching literatures: Roewer (1942, 1954), Bonnet (1945–1957), Prószyński (1976, 1984, 1990, 2011), Brignoli (1983) and Platnick (1989, 1993, 1997, 2012). Of these, Platnick’s World Spider Catalog (at present ver. 12.5) makes an enormous contribution.

About 90 articles concerning Vietnamese spiders from 1837 through 2011 were selected, and reliable records were carefully picked out. An inventory list of species with some notes on their type locality and distribution is performed on the basis of original descriptions and taxonomical and zoogeographical notes.

The order of families and higher taxa follows the system proposed by Ono (2009 b), while genera and species are arranged in alphabetical order.

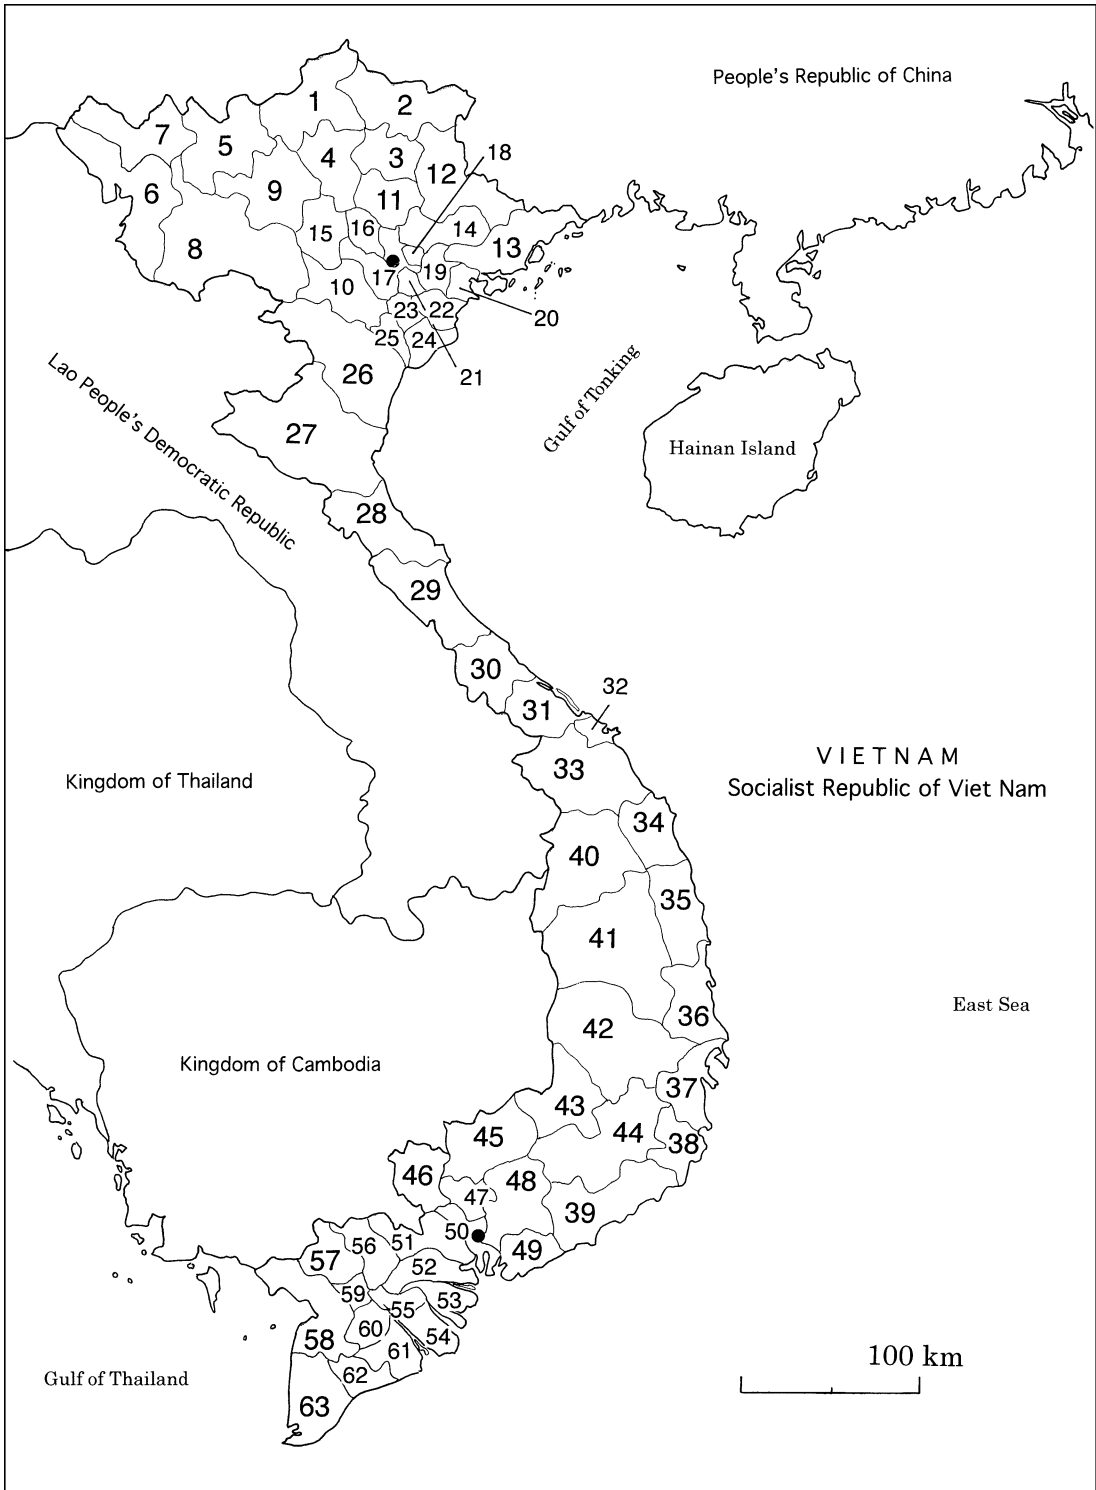

Species widely distributed in Southeast Asia are presumed to occur naturally in Vietnam. However, these without certain records have not been taken. Records of species from “Indochina” without details of the locality were regarded as unreliable.

A map showing provinces of Vietnam is made on the basis of the present administration (Fig. 1).

Although re-examination of type specimens in old European collections is in progress, only type specimens of Poltys turriger Simon, 1897 and Poltys unguifer Simon, 1909 (Araneidae) both examined in the Muséum National d'Histoire Naturelle, Paris (MNHN), are here-with illustrated as an example (Figs. 2–6). Complete results of examination of old collections and newly obtained materials will be published in further opportunities.

Results

A total of 456 species belonging to 41 families are recorded in Vietnam for the time being. However, many species common or having wide distributional range in Southeast Asia are lacking in the list. There is also a strong possibility that spiders of following families unrecorded occur in Vietnam because they are already known in neighboring countries: Atypidae, Idiopidae, Dipluridae, Nemesiidae, Barychelidae, Segestriidae, Hypochilidae, Filistatidae, Eresidae, Oecobiidae, Titanocidae, Hersiliidae, Palpimanidae, Desidae, Hahniidae, Theridiosomatidae and Mysmenidae. The spider fauna of Vietnam is estimated to have more than three times of the present number of species.

ベトナムのクモ類（クモ綱，クモ目）の記録（1837～2011年）

小野展嗣・Ta Huy Thinh・Pham Dinh Sac

ベトナム社会主義共和国のクモ類（クモ綱，クモ目）の記録を既存の文献から抽出した。1837年から2011年の間に刊行された論文約90編の中で記録された41科456種のクモ類の目録を作成し、基準産地および分布についてコメントを付した。古い記録についてはタイプ標本の再調査をすすめているが、今回はパリのフランス国立自然史博物館に所蔵されている Poltys turriger Simon, 1897 および Poltys unguifer Simon, 1909（コガネグモ科）のタイプ標本のスケッチを掲げるのみにとどめた。
